

FORM FOR EMPLOYERS

INSTITUTION AGH University of Science and Technology.....

CITY Krakow

POSITION Senior Lecturer,

DISCIPLINE computer science

POSTED

EXPIRES

WEBSITE

KEY WORDS

DESCRIPTION (field, expectations, comments):

A candidate must have: a PhD degree in the discipline of Information Technology, over ten years of teaching experience at a university, in particular lab classes and lectures on the subjects of information technology, knowledge and practical skills in the field of computer security, with an emphasis on web/application security, but also operating systems security and database security, commercial experience in security assessment, academic/scientific achievements proven by published work on application and/or information system security, participation in multi-party national and/or international research or commercial IT projects, abilities and passion for teaching, delivering an open qualifying lecture in scope and time specified by the Board of Control Engineering Faculty of Electrical Engineering Computer Science and Biomedical Engineering, positively assessed by the appointed members of the Board, English language at the level of at least B2, documented qualifications in education.