Programmer position

in a research project funded by the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange (PPN/PPO/2019/1/00042). The project is aimed at developing new computational methods to interpret three-dimensional organization of the genome through analyzing next generation sequencing data.

We offer:

- part-time or full-time position (negotiable, 40% to 100%),
- monthly salary around 5,700 PLN gross for full-time (prorated for part-time),
- initial contract for 6 months with possibility of extension up to 2 years,
- work on publishable software for bioinformatics methods,
- access to personal computer and computational resources.

Requirements:

- M.Sc. degree or M.Sc. student status in exact or natural sciences (computer science, bioinformatics, mathematics, physics),
- strong programming skills in R or Python,
- practical experience with analyzing next generation sequencing data,
- capability of working individually and self-study,
- good command of English.

Nice to have:

- knowledge of machine learning frameworks,
- publication record in conferences/journals.

The project is led by Aleksander Jankowski (www.mimuw.edu.pl/~ajank/), who can be contacted for more information. The position is available to start as soon as possible. Please apply by sending CV, transcript of grades (if a student) and a cover letter to ajank@mimuw.edu.pl. Application deadline: December 5, 2021.

The applications will be evaluated by a selection committee appointed by the Dean of the Faculty of Mathematics, Informatics and Mechanics, University of Warsaw. The committee will recommend no more than two candidates by December 10, 2021. The competition is the first stage of the recruitment process as described in the Statute of the University of Warsaw, the recommendation by the selection committee being a basis for its subsequent stages.
